Catalog Subcommittee. The program was approved " in principle'' because funding has not been allocated. Funding was proposed in the operating budget for 1979-81 biennium but was cut out before reaching the state legislature. A $30,000 initial appropriation has been proposed. Francis Ho, chairman of the Asian American Steering Committee, said "the program is predestived for failure if ade-quate financial backing is not provided.

ASWSU President Tom Pirie reported on a plan to request a voluntary assessed fee from students at registration to be put into general funds. The contributions would help cover the $50,000 ASWSU funds deficit. Terrell gave support to the plan. Pirie also said directors of various employment areas on campus have agreed to increase student time slip wages to federal minimum wage effective July

Federal District Court Judge Federal District Court Judge Marshall A. Neill of Spokane became the 13th recipient of the Regents Distinguished Alumnus Award, Terrell announced. Neill is a 1936 graduate. Neill has been president of the Alumni Association and the Cougar Club.

Gay Awareness Committee spokesman, Joe Carruthers, asked the board to be aware of the problems the committee is having with funding. Carruthers said the committee's main function is education. The committee has given nearly 100 speeches this year. Pirie added that people ask for presentations yet are not willing to pay for it.

A $971,000 remodeling project on Regents Dining Hall was approved. The remodeling will include renovations on kitchen areas and equipment. The project should by completed by late fall, 1980

The General Services Complex will receive $673,739 to construct a new facility for the receiving and delivery sections Pouring of slipforms for new seats in Martin Stadium started last week. The stadium is scheduled to be finished Aug. 1. A new track stadium will probably be built on the present Bailey Field and the baseball field will be moved to what was to have been the track site.

Rezone hearing postponement rejected

A petition asking for a contin-uance of a public hearing on the proposed Howard Street zone change was denied by the City Council last Tuesday night.

Gerianne Dias, representing Manual Th'Arce, a Spokane developer who opposes the change, asked the public hearing be set back to Oct. 1. The public hearing is scheduled June 26.

She said the delay would have allowed time for more informa-tion to refute the proponents of the zone change and that it would be unfair to hold the hearing while students were away. Phi while students were away. Phi Gamma Delta (Fiji) owns property within the zone change. The fraternity planned to ex-pand into the lots it owns within the proposed zone change area. If the zone change passes, Fiji would not be allowed build a new fraternity on it. The zone change will be from R-4 (high density) to R-2 (low density). The new zoning would allow duplex housing.

Th'Arce plans to build an apartment complex on two of the four lots he owns on Howard Street. It was this announcement which caused residents in the area to petition the city for the zone change.

Th'Arce put his lots up for sale about two weeks ago, but plans to continue fighting the zone change.

Permit Questions

Members of the Howard Street Homeowner's Association asked if a building permit could be issued before the hearing. Kathy Nolan, assistant city attorney, said a permit could be issued at any time and once it is issued, the person has a vested right to do whatever is on the permit.

Mike Beatty of the association then asked Dias if he could get her assurance that Th'Arce would not apply for a building permit until after the zone change issue is resolved. Dias said she could not give that assurance.

Continuance to Oct. 1 was voted down three to two.

Voting in favor were Bill Gaskins and Bill Marler. Voting against were Ken Casavant, Barbara Rayburn and Anna Jim Er-ickson. Mike Olson and John Cook were absent.

Other action

The council voted to replace the South Street bridge near the City Playfield. Eighty percent of the money will come from federal funds.

Vacation of Cheam and Mill Streets on the Franz Koppel more than the professional Mal and part of Jay Street near the Colfax Highway were approved. All those streets were unused, unimproved streets. The property is sold to property owners along the dedicated streets.

Colleen Warren, senior, was named to the Citizens' Transit Advisory Commission, replacing Mike Bevers.

A bid by United Paving, Inc. to pave Park Streethfrom State Street to the City Public Works Shop for $66,206 was approved.

The July 3 workshop session of the Council was postponed to July 31
