

Trailers allowed to stay in flood plain

Trailers located in the city's flood ways must be removed by July 1, 1979, without exception.

The council deliberated for about three hours on the matter, sifting through the proposed ordinance section by section and amendment by amendment. The 17-page ordinance received council approval in a 6-1 vote, with council member Anna Jim Erickson dissenting.

Erickson has been adamantly opposed to any control over the mobile home parks by the city.

As finally adopted, the ordinance requires mobile home owners to anchor their trailers with a series of over-the-top ties at each corner and two additional ties per side, in addition to frame ties on the sides and corners. All components of the anchoring system must be able to withstand a direct tensile load of 4,800 pounds.

This provision applies to trailers now in the flood plain and to those that might be located there after the effective date of the ordinance.

The council, in an amendment, voted to prohibit the expansion of existing mobile home parks and the construction of new mobile home parks in the flood plain and flood way.

The ordinance requires anyone desiring to begin construction or development in the flood plain or flood way to obtain a development permit at a cost of $50.

Under the definition of "development" in the ordinance, the addition of tie-downs to existing mobile homes would constitute a development.

Tom Pirie, ASWSU president and resident of the University Mobile Home park, said later yesterday he is "quite delighted" with the council's decision to allow trailers in the flood way to remain there until July 1.

The deadline for removal of trailers in the flood way was Dec. 1. The extension was requested so the residents, all of whom are students, could move their trailers in better weather without the added pressure of classes.

"My primary concern was that the five of us be allowed to stay," he said.

Sue Songer, a resident of Campus Vista mobile homes, said she is "glad it finally was decided. It gives the people something to work with. It's a pretty good ordinance."

She said she feels it is unfair to those trailer owners who must tie their trailers down, but said it is fair to the students. "It's better than attrition."

Pirie praised the council for its knowledge on the subject and its sensitivity to the residents of the mobile home parks. "I don't think they acted rash. They turned a sensitive ear to the residents and have taken a lot of abuse" during this controversy, he said.

Pirie gave special praise to Council member Bill Marler who he said has "done a lot of research on the subject."

Art hearing set

Wondering what kind of a sculpture is going to be purchased for $38,500 and placed in the plaza of the Computer Sciences-Mathematics building?

The Building Arts Committee has scheduled a public meeting Dec. 7 from 8-10 p.m. in Todd 144 to give a slide presentation of the final choices.

The meeting is scheduled as part of the evaluation process, allowing the committee to meet with interested persons before making the final recommendation to the Board of Regents in January.

Honors gained

The WSU chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists has received top regional honors for the third consecutive year.

Presentation of the award was made in Birmingham, Ala. to Judy DeHaas, chapter president. Competition involved chapters from Washington, Alaska, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

City passes flood law; Airport road complete; "Breathe Easy Week"

The City Council met Tuesday and heard reports from city board chairmen, considered Environmental Quality Commission requests and passed the controversial flood plain ordinance (see related story p.1).

Jeremy Robertson, chairman of the Environmental Quality Commission, asked the council to consider in its 1979 budget $5,000 for a quarter-time flood plain coordinator who would oversee a comprehensive flood plain management program.

Robertson said the EQC voted 4-1 to take on the task of serving as an implementer of such a program.

The council voiced initial support for the proposal although some portions of the request may have to be negotiated further. Robertson requested office space in city hall for the flood plain coordinator, but Mayor Karen Kiessling said there is currently no room for any more offices in the building.

Council member Bill Marler, in voicing his support, said flooding has been a serious problem at times and that this proposal is a "serious step forward in trying to alleviate some of the problems in Pullman."

John Cook, council member, said, "It is good it (the request) is tied to the environment. We need to consider it and take action."

Another member of the council, Bill Gaskins, questioned whether the request should be included in this year's budget since the budgetary process is almost completed.

Robertson said the request could be considered at any time but added that members of the EQC may not have a "great desire to push this year after year."

In the reports section of the meeting, Jim Morasch, chairman of the airport board, told the council the new road bypassing the runway is completed, bringing the airport into compliance with FAA regulations.

Kiessling issued a proclamation naming this week "Breathe Easy Week" in Pullman. She urged citizens to pay heed to the health factors involved in smoking, and noted that 300,000 persons die prematurely every year as a result of cigarette smoking.

Board alters staff pay rates

Variations from the original salary recommendations to be heard at the Higher Education Personnel Board's (HEPB) classified staff salary hearings today and Friday were proposed to the board last night by Dennis Carlson, HEPB Assistant Director.

The numbers used to denote the changes correspond to a salary grid, where higher numbers mean a higher salary range.

The group which would benefit the most from the salary changes are the Creamery Operator I's. They are listed in salary range 41, when they had previously been in range 30. In dollars, this would be a difference of from $331 per month to $423 per month, depending on their place within the range.

Other class changes are as follows: Accountant II from 32 to 33, Administrative Assistant A from 25 to 26, Electronics Technician from 38 to 37, Assistant Herds Manager from 21 to 24, Farm Superintendent from 26 to 24, Farm Equipment Operator I from 9 to 20, Gardener II from 16 to 20, and Machinist from 31G to 35G.

Other changes included: Planning Analyst II from 41 to 43, Drafting Technician II from 23 to 28, Trades Helper from 20G to 24G, and Nurse Practitioner II from 24 to 26.

Auction is to raise radio funds

Student-owned KAZU-FM will hold an auction to raise money Thursday in the CUB Lair between 11 am and 2 pm. Items to be auctioned off include tickets to an upcoming concert, a calculator, a tape deck, Casino Royale dates, disc jockey time, passes to "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" and more.

The auction-broadcast is part of KAZU's effort to raise money for construction purposes. The cable station plans to go over the air sometime next semester and needs funds for the capital expenditures involved. The ASWSU Assembly will provide only some of the monies necessary. KAZU is also asking for money and service donations from students, staff, and downtown merchants, according to Jim Porter, program director.

Porter emphasized that KAZU welcomes public service announcements and that December Program Guides are available, free for the asking. KAZU is located on third floor CUB.

SIN?

AS THE CHURCH AT CORINTH HAD SINNED SO WE HAVE SINNED
1st COR. 6:9-10

"Don't you know that the wicked will not inherit the Kingdom of God? Do not be deceived. Neither the sexually immoral nor idolators nor adulterers nor male prostitutes, nor homosexuals offenders, nor thieves, nor the greedy, nor drunkards..."

BUT AS THE CHURCH AT CORINTH
WAS FORGIVEN, SO MAY WE IF WE RECEIVE CHRIST AND HIS FORGIVENESS.

V.II

"And that is what some of you were (the Corinthian Christians). But you were washed (forgiven), you were sanctified (cleansed from sin) justified (shown to be just) IN THE NAME OF THE LORD JESUS CHRIST, AND BY THE SPIRIT OF OUR GOD."
