

NEWS

CONFERENCE

Continued from Page 3

yearly. Focused on the growing Asian American population, A Magazine boosts the largest Asian information circulation in the United States.

Entertainment will be provided by acoustic singer and songwriter Magdalen Hsu-Li. Workshop topics will proactively evaluate domestic violence, affirmative action and the tragedy of trafficking women in the Philippines.

According to Institutional Research the target audience of the conference is growing on Pullman soil. In fall 1988, 274 women sought a Cougar education. Last fall their numbers peaked at 464.

Asian American and Pacific

Islander Student Center Counselor Esther K. Choy said Captivate is important to Asian students and the WSU population as a diversified whole. She said the conference could help young Asians to identify their potential.

"The conference will bring more human potential to the community," Choy said. "It's all about empowering populations."

BRIDGES

Continued from Page 3

gravel support berms, giving rise to a $2000 cleanup.

"Overall, there was no structural damage; we mainly just had to clean up a little."

The current work, Werner said, "will be mainly just laying down the bracing materials, and bolting them down to keep the road smooth. Motley and Motley Inc. of Pullman, will do the work, Werner said. They were contracted by the Washington State Department of Transportation. The renovation's cost was unavailable on Monday. Runners, skaters, and cyclists can still use the bridges during the construction.

"Just be aware," Werner said. "People will have to be careful around the bridges."

"In the long term, this'll benefit the trail," he said.

MADNESS: 'It's like Jeopardy on TV, except there will be gay categories'

Continued from the Front Page

being gay on campus and in the community.

Students can engage in Gay Jeopardy and a Variety Show Thursday at 7 p.m. in Butch's Den.

"It's just like Jeopardy on TV, except there will be gay categories," Sloan said. "The variety show will be students that feel they need to display their talents as drag queens and stuff like that."

On Friday, a discussion called "Brown Queers" will be held at 1 p.m. in CUB B-17. Students will discuss what it is like being African American and a homosexual, Sloan said.

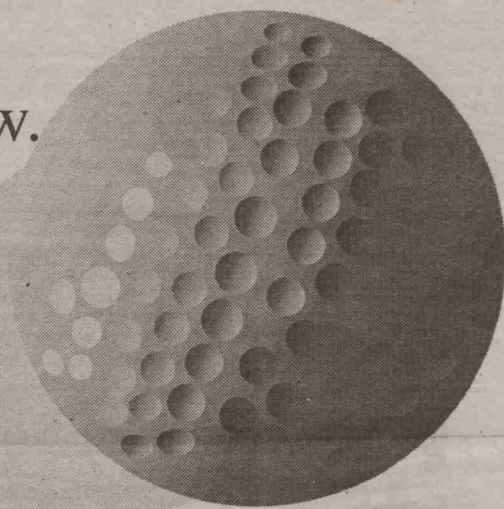

A dance titled, "Wonderland at the Down Under," will be held at Stephenson South at 8 p.m. Friday. The dance will be hosted by DJ T. from the "Groove Foundation" at The Beach and is free to all students.

The final activity of the week will be a group discussion titled, "Gay Spirituality," held in CUB B-17. Students will discuss the conflicts that arise between their homosexuality and their religion. The time will be announced later this week, Sloan said.

An informational table will be set up from noon to 1 p.m. at the west entrance of the CUB all this week.

4th Annual Evergreen Open

Sign up for your chance to golf with Sam Smith at the Student Publications Front Desk, 113 Murrow.

- Three lucky WSU students will be chosen to play with President Sam Smith.
- Tournament fees will be on us!

Sponsored by:

THE BOOKIE
STUDENTS BOOK CORPORATION

FOR ARTS SAKE Framing, Matting, Prints

The BONMARCHÉ

VGH

KHTR 104.3 FM

Blimpie SUBS & SALADS

Brian's Body Shop

Old European

PMH Summit Therapy At the Peak of Rehabilitation

Godfather's Pizza

DARK WATERS

CREATIONS, INC.

Sella's The Small Place

Simply Nails and Tanning

BURGER KING

Kinko's

Pullman Memorial Hospital

LES SCHWAB Tires

CHIPMAN & TAYLOR

Quality Inn

Best Western

Emporium YOUR FAMILY DEPARTMENT STORE

Swilly's

Branegan's

Jerry's Auto Repair

MINGLES Bar & Grill